

Hummus Bros

Hummus Bros was founded in August 2005 by Ronen Givon & Christian Mouysset.

Christian & Ronen (who look like brothers but aren't) explain that "Hummus Bros was born on a glorious hot day in May 2003, when, as two college friends, we were searching for something filling and healthy that would taste great, and still leave some change for drinks at the Union Bar. Passing on the usual options of pizza or sandwiches, we stumbled out of a small specialist delicatessen with three basic ingredients: pitta bread, hummus and olive oil. In no time at all, the bowls of hummus were wiped spotlessly clean. 'I could eat a good meal like that every day!' someone remarked. We looked at each other and smiled - a dream was born: to open a place dedicated to hummus."

Hummus Bros pioneered the concept of the hummus bowl - a layer of hummus with a delicious topping such as beef stew, falafel salad, guacamole or tabouleh. Everything, including the hummus, is made daily in-house in their fully SALSA-accredited central kitchen and is delivered fresh to shop every morning. Through its four shops in Soho, Holborn, Cheapside and Exmouth Market, Hummus Bros now serves over 6,000 customers per week with its delicious, Levantine inspired food.

The menu has options for vegans, vegetarians and meat eaters as well as individuals who have food intolerances and includes side salads, mezzes, wraps (falafel & chicken), baklava, and homemade gluten-free brownie. Hummus Bros also makes its own lemonade and spiced apple drinks. For the full menu, please visit www.hbros.co.uk/ourfood.

In mid-2013, Hummus Bros in partnership with 3 of the major facilities management companies, began opening a highly innovative pop-up format in corporate restaurants in the City. This has proved highly popular and is expanding rapidly.

Hummus Bros has also provided a free delivery service and this now represents over 10% of its sales and continues to grow.
